Prison for drug dealers

DRUG dealers who flooded the streets with £1 million of Class A narcotics have been jailed for a total of 32 years.

Prosecutor Christopher Morgan told a Crown court last Friday that police had tracked couriers taking cash to drop-off points such as public car parks where it was exchanged for drugs.

Former Cambridge drug dealer Matthew Dixon, 39, of Elmhurst Close, Haverhill, was described as the main organiser of the Haverhill-based business. He received a nine-year sentence having only recently completed a four-and-a-half year sentence for dealing in Cambridge.

Ryan Eggo, 22, of Church Close, Whittlesford, who was described as "a junior partner", was jailed for five years.

Around three kilos of pure cocaine with an approximate total street value, after cutting, of £400,000 was involved in the operation, which ran between October 2007 and July 2008.

But officers who busted the drugs ring think the criminals brought around £1 million of drugs into Cambridgeshire and Suffolk over a 12-month period.

The court heard the dealers used the cash from their illicit dealings to fund a lavish lifestyle, surrounding themselves with expensive cars, watches and jewellery.

Couriers Paul French, 32, of Gannet Close, Haverhill, and Sean Kimber, also 32, of Maypole Close, Little Wilbraham, both got four and a half-year sentences.

Taxi driver Paul Massie, 48, of Haverhill Road, Steeple Bumpstead, got five years, and Sam Gilmour, 34, of Muswell Hill, London, got four years.

Emma Limpus, 32, of Cleves Road, Haverhill, who admitted being concerned in the supply of Class B amphetamines, got a 12-month prison sentence, suspended for two years, and was ordered to do 150 hours of unpaid work.

Paul tunes up for charity run

TUBA player Paul Farr is going to need plenty of puff when he takes on a run in aid of a cancer charity next month.

Paul, of School Road, Kedington, is the tuba player with Haverhill Silver Band and is taking part in the 10k (6.2-mile) run in October to raise money for Cancer Research.

Paul said: "10k is a long way for me, so I'm in training. Before I started training for this, the furthest I've ever run is 1.7 miles. I need to get up to 6.2 miles. It will be a challenge, but it's worth it.

"I am managing four miles at the moment, so I hope to be up to 6.2 by October. I would like to hear from anyone who may be interested in giving money to a good cause."

GCSE success for students

STANDARDS continued to rise at both of Haverhill's upper schools, with almost all students passing at least five GCSE exams.

At Samuel Ward Arts and Technology College there was a 100 per cent pass rate at A-G grades, with 82 per cent passing at A-C grades and 90 per cent of pupils receiving four A* grades.

Mark McCulloch, deputy head, said: "They are an outstanding set of results, a triumph for Haverhill and a sign that it is one of the leading schools in the area."

"The results are very, very good, and show the school provides great value."

"I would like to thank the staff for their dedication and commitment and the pupils for the hard work and the outstanding support we have received from parents."

Cousins Jack Farrant and Lucy Hardwick both picked up their GCSE results at Samuel Ward.

Jack, from Haverhill, passed with eight A*, four A and one

C grades, while Lucy passed with one A*, three Bs, four Cs, two Ds and one E.

Jack said: "I was surprised, I did not revise until a couple of days before the exam and I was particularly surprised to get an A* in French. My course work was good so I was not too worried about the exams."

She said: "He has done a lot better than me. I expected to do better, but they are still pretty good results."

Other students at Samuel Ward who performed well were Emily Wallis with six A* and four A grades, Chloe Dolby with five A* and five As, Fenella Acey with six A* and three Bs, Chris Parmee with four A* and seven As, James Battye with four A* and six As and Callum Johnstone with six As, two Bs and two Cs.

Principal Madeleine Vigar said: "I am delighted with these results which put us in the top range of schools across the country."

"These GCSE results are a tribute to the hard work of our students and their teachers – they indicate that these young people have made outstanding progress and have very bright futures."

"These excellent results come at a time when our local schools have won a bid to lead 14-19 education in the area, which is an exciting opportunity for our town."

At Castle Manor the top performers included Kirsty Ashman: six A*, four As, three Bs; Andrew White: seven As, two Bs, three Cs; Hayley Blick: five A*, four As, three Bs, one C, one D; Sasha Elhawani: five As, six Bs, one C; Christopher Ellis: five As, five Bs, two Cs, one D; George Shaw: four Bs, seven Cs, one D; James Farnham: four A*, three Cs, one D, two Es, one F.

Drug-run masterminds enjoyed lavish lifestyles

Guilty: Matthew Dixon.

A POLICE operation lasting 10 months led to the seizure of £750,000 of assets from drug dealers.

Police smashed the sophisticated drug-running operation following a painstaking investigation, launched in October 2007, known as Operation Wager.

The lavish lifestyles of kingpins Matthew Dixon, formerly of Cambridge, and Ryan Eggo, from Whittlesford, included expensive cars such as a £65,000 Range Rover and a new VW 4X4, as well as jewellery items including five Rolex watches seized from Dixon's house – one alone worth £35,000.

Large amounts of cash were found in the homes of the two, who were both registered as unemployed, with £50,000 stuffed down a sofa and a Wimpy bag found on the seat of a car with cocaine worth £50,000 inside.

The operation linked the two masterminds of the Haverhill-based set-up to couriers who exchanged thousands of pounds

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk in cash for large deliveries of drugs, often involving £50,000 at a time.

Following the trial at Ipswich Crown Court, police will make a 'proceeds of crime' application to sell off the assets, with some of the money used to provide community facilities such as playgrounds in the town.

Supt David Skevington, of Suffolk police, said he believed the pair had been operating the criminal enterprise from Haverhill for a considerable time, bringing around £50,000 worth of cocaine a week into the town. They had regarded themselves as 'Untouchables' because they never actually handled the drugs or the money.

Dixon, of Elmhurst Close, Haverhill, was described as a director of Cambridge Limousine Company, as was Eggo, 22, of Church Close, Whittlesford, but police found this was just a front for their drug operation.

Officers had tracked the movements of couriers taking cash from Haverhill to meeting points such as service stations, where it was exchanged for drugs which were brought back to safe houses in Haverhill.

A large press, used to compress the drugs, was found at one of the safe houses.

Surveillance of the group showed frequent drug runs, with their movements tracked over eight days during November 2007, where exchanges of packages took place in public car parks.

The following month, two men were arrested at Redbridge Tube Station with a kilo of cocaine, with a street value of about £50,000.

At a house, £20,000 in cash and a loaded firearm were found.

Dixon and Eggo had more than 20 mobile phones each and when these were seized, officers used high-tech methods to link calls made to specific drug runs, with money from Haverhill exchanged for drugs from London.

In July 2008, in a joint operation by officers from Suffolk, Cambridgeshire and the Metropolitan Police, a total of 15 people were arrested at addresses in Haverhill, Cambridgeshire and London.

At Dixon's house in Haverhill police found 20 phone SIM cards, £7,000 in cash in a cooker hood, five Rolex watches and a number of expensive cars.

Eggo's house revealed seven phones, £5,000 in cash and stab-proof vests.

Supt Skevington said: "I am very proud of the work done by our officers. This was a very sophisticated operation, bringing in £50,000 worth of drugs into Haverhill every week.

"We hope to bring some of that money back into the community for things like football kits, swings and slides."

Jail for dealers

■ From Page 1

Judge David Goodin ordered that all the defendants should serve half of the sentences imposed. He said: "Class A drugs and their presence in the community are a source of evil. They can lead to dependency, degradation and sometimes even death. Along the way they are directly causal of acquisitive crimes such as burglary, violent or street crime including sexual crimes.

"For this reason courts dealing with those who push the stuff around in the community must be dealt with severely."

A confiscation hearing has been set for a later date.

New store ends search for recruits

THE stampede to snap up jobs at a new superstore, which opens at the end of the month, is over with more than 3,000 applications received for the 260 full and part-time jobs on offer.

Tesco has now finished recruiting for its new store at the former Station Yard site in Haverhill which opens on Monday, September 28, and store manager Adrian Jones said the number of applications was overwhelming.

Mr Jones said: "In this time of economic uncertainty, it is great that we are able to create jobs and help get people back into work. The quality of applicants was fantastic and I am delighted with my new team.

"We are currently preparing for the launch of the new store on September 28, and look forward to playing an active role in the local community.

"All new recruits are currently on their company induction, and will then go on a basic training programme and then given training specific to their department to ensure that they are fully trained prior to the opening."

The store recruited through the local Job Centre Plus. People who were interested in applying for a job were directed to the Tesco recruitment website.

The official opening ceremony will take place at 10am, when a £1,000 donation will be presented to a local charity as part of the opening celebrations.

In addition, there will be glasses of champagne, orange juice and cake on offer for the first customers.

The new store has a wide range of foods and its own bakery, as well as non-food departments including clothing, health and beauty, toys, home entertainment, and a cookshop and homeshop.

The store will be open from 7am-11pm Monday to Saturday and 10am-4pm on Sundays.

Beating the holiday blues

STREET dance and boxing sessions are just two of the activities young people in Haverhill have been trying to keep busy during their summer holidays.

They have had a full programme of sporting activities available to them this summer thanks to Havebury Housing and Catch 22, a merged charity group which runs the Positive Futures activity-based social inclusion programme for young people.

The Positive Futures programme includes football, boxing and street dancing for young people aged 10 to 19, with day and evening sessions run during August in various locations across the town, including Haverhill Leisure Centre and its recreation grounds.

Remaining sessions next week include football, boxing, street dancing, teenage kicks and a football match in Ipswich.

If you would like more information about the sessions, visit www.havebury.com or contact Alan Ott on 07717 290573.

TINY Toes Childcare offers a fun and inspirational environment for children from as young as three months up to the age of 14.

The centre opened just last month, and has since become hugely popular with parents and children alike.

"Haverhill is growing and we noticed there was a need for another good-quality, affordable nursery," says owner Amanda Ewings.

Activities such as ballet, drama and French lessons, plus a pets corner, home garden and adventure play area are all provided, and certain to keep everyone entertained.

"What sets us apart from other nurseries is the garden," continues Amanda. "We believe in the Montessori way which is all about using your senses. We feel it's important for the children to smell the freshly-cut grass when we mow the lawn and feel it under their feet, rather than have to run around on tarmac."

The beautiful gardens extend all the way around the building and are split into sections. "One is dedicated to the nought-two year-olds, where everything is of just the right height for them. We also have apple trees, a lawn and a play area, plus a vegetable garden where the children can grow tomatoes, peppers, cucumber . . . In fact, the cucumber looks a bit sad – it didn't quite grow," laughs Amanda. "But that's all part of life, isn't it?"

"And now we've put the bird feeders up, the children can sit in the dining room while watching the birds having their dinner too."

As a mother herself, Amanda knows the importance of listening to what the children and their parents want from a childcare centre.

"It was designed by myself, the children and the parents," she says. "The children wrote down wishlists for what they'd like in each room. The parents mainly wanted security and lots of space."

The building is brand new and its quiet, countryside environ-

Amanda concludes: "As a parent, I find it ticks all the right boxes."

Long wait for a new stadium is now over

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

FOOTBALLERS and community leaders are set to kick off a scheme which will see a new £2 million football facility come to Haverhill.

After years of planning, a landmark agreement on a funding package for the £1.95 million Haverhill community football project has been reached. The facility will increase opportunities for community involvement in football and provide Haverhill Rovers FC with a new home at Chalkstone Playing Fields.

Work is due to start shortly on the new stadium, pitches and changing rooms, which could be ready for the start of the new season next year.

St Edmundsbury Borough Council has been working with Haverhill Rovers FC to secure capital funding from the Football Foundation and the Football Stadia Improvement Fund (FSIF). They have jointly been offered £450,000 from the Football Foundation towards the capital project with an additional £70,000 of revenue funding. Haverhill Rovers has been offered £100,000 from the FSIF. A new partnership, the Haverhill Community Sports Association, has been set up to run the scheme.

But before offers could be accepted, partners had to address a funding shortfall, towards which St Edmundsbury has contributed £100,000.

Cllr Lynsey Alexander, the council's cabinet member for culture and sport, said: "This project has had very strong support from the community and I am delighted that in these hard times, the merits of the project have been recognised with this significant grant, which we have been glad to accept."

Terry McGerty, president of Haverhill Rovers, said: "After 15 years of involvement with Haverhill Rovers Football Club it will be a real achievement for everyone to see the start of this project, which will be a tremendous asset to Haverhill."

Paul Thorogood, chief executive of the Football Foundation and the FSIF, said: "We congratulate St Edmundsbury Borough Council, Haverhill Rovers FC and the Suffolk County FA for their hard work and dedication in securing this award."

FINE floral arrangements and art works were admired by visitors to a pretty village church over the weekend.

Castle Camps United Reformed Church once again hosted a flower festival and art exhibition over the August bank holiday weekend, with stalls and refreshments on offer on both days.

Minister Karen Knight said the church was delighted to host the festival once again.

The Sunday morning service was led by the Reverend Paul Whittle, moderator of the Eastern Synod, and a songs of praise service in the evening featured Richard Hart on the organ with Jackie Hart and Ann Mills singing.

Bus shelters fail to impress

Sir, We would like to put our opinion forward about the new bus shelters now being erected in Haverhill.

Firstly, they are so small. Passengers disembarking the bus cannot move when there are passengers waiting to get on, for the shelters are too narrow. If a mother wants to get on or off with a buggy it would just block the shelter, so all passengers would have no way in or out.

Secondly, there are no seats for the elderly to sit on with their shopping. This morning, an elderly gentleman was sitting on the ground as there was nowhere for him to sit with his shopping.

From all the people we have spoken to about this, not one has had a nice word to say about the bus shelters. Even today, a bus driver said he was not impressed with them.

So again it would seem St Edmundsbury Borough Council has wasted taxpayers' money on something that is as useless as the marble seat it put in the town.

Richard Herbert wrote in after recognising three of the people in the picture.

He said: "I think it was from 1968 when Herbert & Sons, now Herbert Group, moved into our new factory on Rookwood Way.

"On the right is Norman Pryke, who was mayor at the time, and on the left my parents, Jim and Pamela Herbert.

"I think the occasion might have been the signing of the building contract, or similar."

International shares scam sparks warning

A VICTIM of a share scam lost £300,000 and others believed to have been caught by a similar trick have lost thousands of pounds, it has been revealed.

Suffolk police have issued a warning about the scams, known as boiler room scams, after at least 20 people in the county lost substantial sums of money they handed over for what turned out to be worthless shares.

Officers from the county's force are currently working with the Serious Fraud Office (SFO) as well as other police forces in the UK and abroad to bring to justice those behind the cons that can total millions of pounds.

The Suffolk force has warned that people who already own legitimate shares could be targeted by tricksters and could be left with worthless shares and no right to compensation.

Det Chief Insp Steve Mattin said: "If the offer sounds too good to be true then it probably is.

"You may be approached by phone, post, email or via the internet and offered cheap shares, a free gift, a discount on dealing charges or a free research report into a company you may already hold shares in. Or you could receive a call from someone offering to buy your shares at a higher price than their market value and then be asked to pay a bond or security that they say you'll get back if the sale doesn't go ahead.

"All of these can be the opening they need to get cash from you and they will use hard-sell techniques and bogus websites to convince you to buy from them.

"It may sound attractive but it is likely to be a scam and if they are not a regulated company you have no way of getting your money back."

Many of the scams operate from abroad including Spain, the US, Dubai and Hong Kong, making it more difficult to trace those responsible.

The police have warned that shares should only be bought through regulated companies listed on the Financial Services Authority (FSA) website – www.fsa.gov.uk/register

The FSA also has details of unauthorised firms and individuals and those suspected of operating scams.

Report any unsolicited advice to them by calling 0845 606 1234 or at www.moneymadeclear.fsa.gov.uk

Put the kettle on . . . or don't!

IT'S TIME to put the kettle on and brew up for the annual Macmillan World's Biggest Coffee Morning – and staff at the Weekly News are getting the ball rolling by inviting you to our own event.

Macmillan Cancer Support is calling on the residents of Haverhill to raise a mug in support of people affected by cancer on Friday, September 25, when the charity hopes to raise £9million to support people living with cancer. Family, friends and colleagues are asked to join thousands of others in changing the lives of people with cancer.

A coffee morning, with homemade cakes on sale, will be held in the Weekly News office in Queen Street and we are inviting readers to let us know about other events they have planned so we can publicise them. Previously, some unusual spots have hosted coffee mornings for the charity, such as church towers and even underwater. Events don't even have to involve coffee at all – one man has decided to swim all day instead.

Macmillan fundraising manager Luke Wheeler said: "Each year, over 3,500 people in Suffolk learn that they have cancer. Macmillan provides practical, medical, financial and emotional support to those directly affected, including family and carers. With one in three people facing a cancer diagnosis in their lifetime we are wholly dependent on donations to keep supporting people with cancer."

"There's no right or wrong way to take part in the World's Biggest Coffee Morning. You can have a traditional coffee morning at home or work, organise a glamorous coffee-themed evening, or even serve up smoothies or herbal tea instead of coffee."

"And don't worry if you can't hold your event on the official coffee morning day, just organise it at a time that suits you."

Last year's event raised £7.5 million. To register to host a coffee morning, visit www.macmillan.org.uk/coffee or call 0845 602 1246. To find out if there is already a coffee morning being held in your area call Luke on (01603) 626433 or the Weekly News on (01440) 703891.

'Keep away from the loan sharks'

FINANCIAL advisors in Haverhill have warned cash-strapped families to steer clear of loan sharks.

Debt experts at Haverbury Housing Partnership have called for those in dire financial straits to approach them for advice, rather than get caught out by ruthless money lenders.

It follows the jailing last month of a Manchester loan shark, who charged his clients up to 2,437 per cent interest on loans.

Haverbury has joined forces with St Edmundsbury Borough Council, the Citizens Advice Bureau and Age Concern to provide free expert advice for those struggling to cope with their finances.

The housing provider

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

recently held a special drop-in day held at West Suffolk House which attracted a steady stream of visitors seeking financial advice. Experts were on hand to answer questions relating to rent payment, benefit entitlement and redundancy.

Members of the Trading Standards team and volunteers from the Bury Credit Union were also available to discuss the dangers of borrowing from loan sharks and to advise people on safe alternatives for saving or borrowing money.

Jez Robbins, neighbourhood manager at Haverbury, said: "When finances become difficult people can resort to borrowing money from loan sharks as they think this is the only solution.

"But this couldn't be further from the truth as the extortionate amount of interest they charge just compounds the problem."

"That's why we are encouraging anyone who is experiencing financial problems, especially in these difficult times, to speak to Haverbury or one of the other agencies locally which offer free, expert advice."

"There is always another option and financial problems can be resolved."

For more information on how to access the free advice available, contact Mr Robbins on (01284) 722126.

Bowled over by cash donation

A CARPET bowls club decided to go French for the day and raised a total of £450 for Magpas First Responders at a charity boules event.

The fun day, held at Sandown in Withersfield, was hosted by Withersfield Carpet Bowls Club. It was won by Pat Boxall and David Haywood and the cup was presented to them by club chairman Bob Withers.

There were several other fun competitions on the day which helped to swell the funds to a grand total of £427, which was rounded up to £450 by the club.

The cheque was presented to Colin Hartley and Mark Milsom, from Magpas First Responders by club captain Linda Cooke and hosts Ruth and Bob Withers.

The Suffolk woman, who has opted to keep her identity secret, bought the winning bond in April of this year and has a total of £30,000 invested in Premium Bonds.

According to figures released by NS&I last week, the luckiest region in the UK for Premium

Women sign up for pole fitness

Mother of two Gemma Dear had a burning ambition to try her hand at pole dancing and is now helping dozens of other women to do the same.

Gemma, 28, wanted to try something completely different to get fit rather than going to the gym or jogging. She said her husband Phil, 29, thought she was mad, but she soon found she was not alone in her interest and has now started her own classes, which are proving very popular.

Gemma said: "Learning pole fitness is something I was very interested in doing for quite some time, it took me a while to pluck up the courage to go. There weren't any classes locally and the classes I took involved a lot of travelling and expense.

"The first time I tried pole fitness I absolutely loved it and I couldn't keep away. So I thought what a great opportunity to start up something new and exciting in Haverhill for other ladies to join in. It is brilliant, I have got ladies in their 50s who really enjoy it.

New opportunity: Gemma Dear, who has started pole dancing classes, with husband Phil, children Kelis, 4, and Skye, 8.

Picture: Keith Heppell 589963.

"I was a bit worried that people would think it was something sleazy, but I have not had any problems at all. It is great fun and you do burn off a lot of calories doing it."

Gemma, of Rutland Court, Haverhill, works as a carer for elderly people in the evenings and also cares for her children Skye, 8, and Kelis, 4. She qualified as a pole fitness instructor in May and started her Pink Ladies Pole Fitness classes, which have got a really good response.

Now Gemma hopes to pass on her skills to more women. She said: "I would like to show everyday women that no matter what their age, shape or size, anyone can pole dance for fun and fitness."

"The specific movements, transitions, spins, tricks and poses that can be done on the pole challenge the mind and body like no other sport, yet sensually let us dance in a way that makes every move as individual as the person performing it."

Classes in Haverhill are held at Mount Pleasant Club (Con Club) on Thursday evenings from 7-8.30pm and 8.30-10pm, both for beginners. Taster sessions for £10 are offered every Thursday from 8.30-9.30pm until September 17. The next course starts on September 24 at £85 for six weeks. The group also does birthdays, hen parties, girly nights out, follow on classes, and one-to-one taster sessions. # Haverhill Leisure Centre - Inspiring a healthier you

A new fitness studio with state-of-the-art equipment, a health suite and children's indoor play area have turned Haverhill into one of the leading leisure centres in the UK.

The impressive £5.2million refurbishment of Haverhill's Leisure Centre by St Edmundsbury Borough Council includes a fitness studio that has doubled in size to hold the most advanced exercise machines in the country. Haverhill is the first gym to have the latest range of exercise machines from leading American supplier Matrix.

For the first time, Haverhill also has its own dedicated combat training and martial arts room, an area for table tennis, and a sports hall with a Beijing Olympics style floor, providing a fuller range of activities at the centre and for those who like indoor cycling there is a spinning studio.

In the pool area, the pool hall has been re-tiled, the flumes refurbished and a new pool-side spectator seating area created. The wet change facilities have been made into a high quality changing village, with individual shower and toilet facilities. The dry-side changing rooms have also been completely rebuilt to a very high standard.

The new health suite is a fantastic place to unwind and centre users can treat themselves to a sauna, steam room and use the safe tanning tower.

But the facilities are not the only areas that have been modernised. The building itself has been given a makeover with the 1970s external façade given a contemporary look which fits with the other new leisure facilities nearby. The reception area has been re-modelled to be more welcoming; with turnstiles providing improved security and the building is fully accessible to those with disabilities.

Facilities for families have been very much at the forefront of the newly refurbished leisure centre. A £650,000 Kids City three-tier indoor activity area and a Tots Town indoor play area have been created with an adjoining cafe called Coffee Street which serves healthy meals and drinks. A crèche facility is now available Monday to Friday, from 9.00am-1.00pm.

General Manager Dominic Greenwood said: "We wanted to create a Centre that was used by everyone in the community for a variety of activities. Children can come here to use our new Kids City indoor play area or have their birthday party. Mum can go to the gym while Dad uses the pool and after they can catch up over coffee. Clubs can hold swimming competitions while spectators enjoy the new poolside seating area, a group of friends can hire the Astroturf for their weekly game of football, and families can enjoy a game of table tennis in our new dedicated room".

"The Centre has been modernised throughout to make this a wonderful place to come to keep active, keep healthy and meet friends."

Looking for something different for your children's party?

Laser quest, football and a pool disco will be just three of the ten bespoke children's parties available at the centre from this month.

Dedicated party rooms have been made to enable the centre to cater for a huge range of children's interests. Whether you like tennis, arts and crafts, swimming, or playing indoors, there is a party.

The latest edition to the party themes is Laser quest. A fast-paced game similar to tag and hide and seek, players use lasers to tag their opponent's sensors and score as many points as possible.

To see the new pool disco in action, drop in to the Centre on Saturday 12 September between 4.30pm and 5.30pm. For more information on children's parties telephone 01440 702548.

Footballer Will Kick Off Leisure Centre's Official Opening Weekend

Legendary goalkeeper Peter Shilton will perform the official opening of Haverhill's refurbished Leisure Centre on Saturday September 12, kicking off a day of free activities.

Peter will open the refurbished centre at 12.30pm with St Edmundsbury's Mayor Mrs Patricia Warby. Prior to the opening ceremony, Peter will take part in a penalty shoot-out with winners of a children's competition run by Abbeycroft Leisure in the Haverhill Weekly News.

The Centre will be open to the public free of charge throughout the day to allow those who have not seen the improvements a chance to try out the facilities. For health and safety reasons, the fitness centre will only be open to members who have completed their inductions but tours will be provided. Kids City and Tots Town will be open for free until 1pm on Saturday.

Man admits weapon charge

POLICE who broke up an illegal rave in an isolated wood arrested a man carrying a weapon made from a large slab of glass, a court has heard.

Daniel Jaggard was also charged with possessing a Class C drug.

The 32-year-old admitted possessing an offensive weapon and ketamine when he appeared at Bury St Edmunds magistrates court.

Magistrates adjourned sentence on Jaggard until September 24 for preparation of pre-sentence reports, but said all sentencing options were open.

Ros Clark, prosecuting, said Jaggard, of Willow Close, Haverhill, was stopped by a police inspector as he was leaving the site of the rave in woods off Broadland Road, Little Thurlow on Saturday, May 30.

Jaggard had a weapon known as a shiv – a 10-inch long thick lump of glass wrapped with sellotape one end as a handle – sticking out of his back pocket. When searched he also had a wrap of a white powder, which he said he had paid £40 for.

When questioned, Jaggard admitted the offences and said he normally carried the shiv as a self-defence weapon and had forgotten it was in his pocket.

Paul Bootly, for Jaggard, said his client, who has previous convictions for possessing offensive weapons, was receiving incapacity benefit and had problems with alcohol and drugs.

He said Jaggard had not intended to use the weapon.

'I'm more the Winston Churchill type, not another Mrs Thatcher'

VICKY Ford exudes an unquestionable air of efficiency. As I made arrangements on the telephone to meet the 41-year-old mother-of-three, who in June became the first woman Conservative MEP to represent the East of England region, her time management skills were impressive.

Vicky suggested meeting me at the Conservative Association Hardwick offices followed by a trip to the Backs for photographs at her old university stomping ground, Trinity, leaving a wafer-thin 15-minute gap between leaving Hardwick, driving to Cambridge and parking.

I confess I had my doubts and wondered if Mrs Ford was familiar with the perils of parking in Cambridge. As it happened, we made it, on schedule, parking with ease, only adding to Vicky Ford's impressively efficient aura.

In the flesh Vicky is smart, stylish, professional but friendly and very busy. She appears to be constantly on the move, which she mostly is, either dropping off her three children at school in Cambridge, sprinting across St Pancras to catch the Eurostar to Brussels, meeting local MPs to identify issues she will carry to Europe or rushing home to Balsham, near Linton, where she lives.

BY LISA MILLARD

She is a prolific list writer and blogger who, I imagine, is accomplished at getting the most out of every working minute.

"The biggest challenge is juggling time," she says, arriving at the modern, window-fronted Conservative office, where Andrew Lansley and Robert Sturdy are already based. It's a fresh and modern building which, architecturally, neatly represents the new political buzzword, "transparency." "I hope there is space here for me but we'll have to see," she adds.

Cambridge has featured in Vicky Ford's family for many years and she is the third generation to study at the university, where she read maths and economics.

"It's a very strange story that brought me back to Cambridgeshire. My grandmother was a grocer's daughter from Swaffham and the first person in the family to go to university.

"She went to Cambridge back in the days when girls went to Girton. She met my grandfather, who was studying engineering at King's, and they left university just before the war, to be missionaries in India. My mother was born in India and they came back at the beginning of the war and my mother then came to Cambridge University where she read medicine at Girton and met my father, who also read medicine, but at Trinity.

"They went to live in Northern Ireland after they trained as doctors because my father had fallen in love with the country as a teenager. That's where I grew up. And then I came back to go to Cambridge."

Vicky is married to Hugo Ford, a consultant oncologist at Addenbrooke's Hospital whom she met, through friends, at the end of her time at Trinity.

After graduating, Vicky worked in banking in London for 14 years, mostly with JP Morgan, advising companies, governments and central banks internationally, before returning to Cambridge when Hugo took up his post at Addenbrooke's in 2003. "I had a lovely plan," smiles Vicky. "When Hugo started working as a consultant I thought I would become a full-time mum and just do that."

But things did not go quite to plan. "There is no harder work than being a mum but I needed to do more and I had always, at the back of my mind, wanted to get involved in politics."

In Brussels: The European Parliament now has its first female member from the Eastern region.

Growing up in Northern Ireland as the child of two English doctors in the middle of the Troubles shaped that interest. Her parents worked for reconciliation across the Catholic and Protestant divide.

Vicky's father died in an accident during her last year in primary school. Her mother, who is now 70, works for the charity Victims of Torture.

One of three children, Vicky says she knew she really wanted to get involved in politics after 9/11. "I was working on the 46th floor of the Canary Wharf tower. You felt under threat and realised the decisions being made by politicians really impacted on you and your family. It was a decision to want to give back and get involved."

Her political interest was encouraged when, in 2004, she was asked to stand for the local council. She was not elected and a year later she stood in the General Election as the Conservative candidate in Birmingham Northfield. In 2005, Vicky was elected as councillor for Balsham ward and she held the portfolio for community development for South Cambridgeshire District Council from 2006-7 and became finances and resources portfolio holder in 2007, only stepping down this April to set her sights on Europe.

She thinks her political leanings may have emerged during the winter of discontent in the late 1970s, when she was 10, and lived in London, experiencing electricity blackouts, eating tea by candlelight and seeing rubbish pile up on the streets.

"You saw it wasn't working," Vicky recalls. "But I am not another Margaret Thatcher. I am more the Winston Churchill type – getting the whole country moving together. That's what we need to do again."

She hopes, during her initial five-year term as an MEP, to play a part in getting local, national and international politics working together more efficiently and allowing more decisions to be made by local people rather than central government.

Both her banking and political careers have been spent in male-dominated arenas so Vicky is used to being a minority. There are currently 25 Conservative MEPs and six are women. Before the election there was only one.

"I don't think that women should receive positive discrimination. I didn't need positive discrimination to go to and she said to me: 'But mummy there are only going to be two girls in this group'. I said: 'Grow up'. There are going to be circumstances which are not 50/50, no matter how much you would like them to be."

Vicky's new role means being away from her family for three days a week. She stresses the importance of remaining grounded and says she could not do any of it without the support of her husband and children.

"You need your other half to sound ideas off. That's Hugo. He's a very calm person."

Every mother knows that combining work and running a family is not easy and Vicky says she is going to need help.

"I have been enormously lucky that in our lovely village I've had three young student friends who help me out during the summer holidays. I set that up before the election. I have to say I do have someone fantastic who comes and cleans on a Monday morning. You are juggling."

"Taking this job on now means I will have to have a more permanent nanny for the children. They need to have that constant mother figure. But until now I have relied on after-school clubs; there is lots of sharing on school runs and it's more of a mum and dad thing now."

She still tries to make time to play the saxophone, which Hugo bought her as a 40th birthday present, watch him play cricket for Balsham and enjoy her "most precious evening" singing with the Balsham Singers choir.

Having just secured her political place in Europe, Vicky isn't thinking further ahead than her five-year date with Brussels: "Perhaps I will plant a plum tree in the garden and see if it will produce plums."

"I think that's enough for now."

Vicky got involved in politics after 9/11: 'I was working on the 46th floor of Canary Wharf. You felt under threat and realised politicians' decisions really impact on your family.'

Cambridge to read maths where there were 50 boys and four girls in the year. I didn't need it to get on in the City. But we need to have more women in politics," says Vicky. "I do think women have a different way of working. It's not true all the time but, in my experience, there is a level of practicality and a different way of negotiating."

"I was talking to my 11-year-old daughter at breakfast this morning. She's a linguist, has always wanted to be an archaeologist and is fascinated by history. She has been given the chance to learn Greek

Bright new look for big-hearted Big Jim

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

COLLEAGUES of a demolition worker got a shock when he arrived on site with a purple beard, dyed especially for St Nicholas Hospice Care.

Burly Jim Culling adopted the bright colour to raise money for the charity as part of a popular beer festival at his local pub.

But Jim's purple beard, which even had shades of pink in it, was still there 48 hours later when he arrived for work.

Jim said: "I have never done anything like this before but I wanted to raise money for St Nicholas Hospice Care, so I decided to dye my beard purple.

"I had to lighten it up before the beer festival which made it go a little pink. Turning up for work on Monday with a pink and purple beard was quite a sight and I did get a bit of stick from the other workers."

Jim's new look was a talking point during the beer festival at the Red Lion pub in Steeple Bumpstead and regulars gave generously to "Big Jim", as he is affectionately known.

He said: "I wanted to support my local pub and also St Nicholas Hospice Care. I hope to have raised about £320 and I would like to thank everyone who donated money."

As well as St Nicholas Hospice Care, Jim's exploits also raised money for Haven House Children's Hospice in London.

Pub manager Paul Rochester said: "We had a great day and we are delighted we were able to help raise so much money for charity."

Dave Gooderham, press and PR officer for the hospice and regular at the Red Lion pub, said: "The best fundraising activity is all about having fun and doing something wacky."

"Jim's amazing coloured-beard transformation certainly lives up to this. Raising £320 for the hospice is a remarkable achievement and we would like to say thank you to him and his supporters."

Get on your bike for church repair funds

CYCLISTS and walkers are invited to take part in the 28th annual Suffolk Historic Churches Trust bicycle ride on Saturday, September 12.

Participating cyclists and walkers raise sponsorship for each place of worship they visit from 9am to 5pm on the day, with the money shared equally by the trust and the church named by the cyclist.

Six Haverhill churches and chapels - Downs Baptist Chapel, St Mary's, the Old Independent, Methodist, West End Congregational and St Felix Roman Catholic - are among 730 Suffolk places of worship open for the bike ride.

Essex and Cambridgeshire have sponsored rides on the same day so cyclists can visit churches in nearby villages.

The trust makes grants to historic churches and chapels of all denominations towards repair and restoration costs. Since 1974 it has handed out more than £3 million.

For sponsor forms, ring Marty House on (01440) 762570.

MUSIC

■ Tinchy Stryder, The Junction, Thursday, September 17, (01223) 511 511 / www.junction.co.uk
London-Ghanaian grime star Kwasi Danquah – who started out on London pirate radio at the age of 13, alongside fellow grime MC Dizze Rascal – was clearly tempting fate when he joined forces with N-Dubz to release a song called Number 1, as that's exactly where the single ended up in April this year. Since then, Danquah – nicknamed Tinchy because of his 5ft 5in height – has scored another chart-topper with Never Leave You, and seen his album, Catch 22, enter the UK charts at number two.

■ Noah and The Whale, The Junction, Monday, October 5, (01223) 511511 / www.junction.co.uk

Forget mists and mellow fruitfulness – these days, autumn is the season for entertainment, when the industry rolls out its big hitters. We pick just a few of the best treats heading this way between now and Christmas.

These soulful popsters combine beautiful harmonies with elements of folk which has grabbed fans of all genres. Their current single, First Days of Spring, from the album of the same name, has been greatly acclaimed by DJs and follows on from the number five hit, 5 Years' Time.

■ Dizze Rascal, Corn Exchange, Friday, October 9, (01223) 357 851 / www.cornex.co.uk

The king of British rap doesn't show any signs of slowing down. Dizze's new single Holiday looks set to match the huge success of Bankers, which hit the number one spot in May. His music, which cites influences which range from old skool and hip hop to jungle and heavy metal, has earned him a Mercury Music Prize and he was nominated for Best Male this year at the Urban Music Awards.

■ Motorhead, Corn Exchange, Monday, November 23, (01223) 357 851 / www.cornex.co.uk

The never-say-die rockers bring their annual autumn tour to Cambridge promising ear-bleeding slabs of machine gun metal like Overkill, Bomber and, of course, The Ace of Spades, delivered very fast and very loud. Support comes from The Damned and Girlschool.

COMEDY

■ I'm Sorry I Haven't A Clue, Corn Exchange, Tuesday, September 22, (01223) 357 851 / www.cornex.co.uk

Following two sell-out tours in 2007 and 2008, Radio 4's award-winning antidote to panel games returns for another unmissable evening of inspired nonsense.

Barry Cryer, Graeme Garden, Tim Brooke-Taylor and Jeremy Hardy join special guest host Jack Dee, accompanied by Colin Sell on the piano. Light-hearted and satirical, this is unscripted comedy where anything could happen.

■ Simon Amstell, Corn Exchange, Wednesday, October 14, (01223) 357 851 / www.cornex.co.uk

Those used to Amstell's fearless taunting of pop stars, reality TV wannabes and career car-wrecks on the likes of Popworld and Never Mind The Buzzcocks might be surprised by the tone of his stand-up show, which sees him adopting an altogether less cocksure attitude.

MUSICALS

■ My Fair Lady, Cambridge Arts Theatre, Thursday, October 1 – Saturday, October 10, (01223) 503333 / www.cambridgearts.org

theatre.com

Fans of classic musicals are in for a treat as the Cambridge Arts Theatre presents its big in-house musical number. The timeless rags-to-riches tale tells of Eliza Doolittle, the grubby flower-girl, who is plucked from the gutter by a phonetics professor who endeavours to teach her to speak like a lady.

■ Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat, Corn Exchange, Tuesday, December 15 – Sunday, January 3 2010, (01223) 357851 / www.cornex.co.uk

Jason Donavon was the first celebrity to put on the famous dream coat followed by TV's silver fox, Phillip Schofield, who swapped presenting for acting when he accepted the lead role in the 90s. ## Cinema opens doors to parents and tots

AFTER a summer break, tiny tots and their parents can enjoy special screenings again at their local cinema.

Following a successful three-month trial earlier this year, Monday sees the return to Haverhill Cineworld of CineBabies – a screening initiative aimed at giving parents with babies aged 2 or younger a chance to see a current film release without having to leave their toddler at home.

Cinema general manager Paul Willden said CineBabies would now become a permanent fixture on the cinema's calendar.

He said: "The trial proved that there is a demand for these screenings and we are really pleased to continue them every Monday indefinitely."

Following feedback received during the trial, Cinebabies will return at the slightly earlier time of 11.30am, with doors opening at 11am.

Paul said: "The doors will open every Monday at 11am, giving mums and dads a chance to catch up with other parents and pick up tickets and snacks before taking their seats ready for 11.30am show times."

Each week there will be a selection of two or three of the latest films. Each auditorium will be softly illuminated at all times and the film volume will be kept at a "gentle" level, so parents and children will be able to enjoy the film in comfort. Prams and buggies will be safely stored within the auditorium so nappies and dummies are close to hand, and additional staff will be available to offer assistance if needed.

Cinebabies re-starts on Monday with The Time Traveler's Wife (12A), Shorts (PG) and Julie & Julia (12A).

Paul said: "I hope to welcome plenty of mums, dads and hopefully the odd grandparent in CineBabies screenings over the coming months."

Orchestras on way to thrill classical crowd

FROM Russia to Bournemouth, six leading orchestras will be performing at the Cambridge Corn Exchange when the International Concert Series begins in October.

The sequence of concerts kicks off with an all Tchaikovsky programme by the St Petersburg Symphony Orchestra, and includes both the best of British orchestras and world-renowned visitors from Europe.

The opening concert will see the return of talented English cellist Guy Johnston, who in 2000 won the BBC Young Musician of the Year competition with his interpretation of Shostakovich's First Cello Concerto, despite breaking a string halfway through the performance.

The second concert sees the Philharmonia Orchestra take to the stage, led by the principal conductor of the Royal Liverpool Philharmonic Orchestra and the National Youth Orchestra of Great Britain, Vasily Petrenko. On the programme for the November concert is Mussorgsky's spine-tingling Night on the Bare Mountain and Shostakovich's Fifth Symphony.

With the shortest journey to make, the Bournemouth Symphony Orchestra are the much-loved regulars at the Corn Exchange and will be hosting the first concert of the series in 2010.

Serenade: Kirill Karabits will conduct the BSO, which will be staging an ambitious concert, performing Serenade for Strings, Cello Concerto in A minor and Symphony No 3 in A minor, 'Scottish'

Appearing for the first time under their newly-appointed principal conductor, Ukrainian Kirill Karabits, the BSO will be staging an ambitious concert, performing Serenade for Strings, Cello Concerto in A minor and Symphony No 3 in A minor, 'Scottish'.

The series will see the Czech National Symphony Orchestra return to the Corn Exchange after a 10-year absence with a line-up of beautiful 19th century classics. Starting with Schubert's Unfinished, concluding with the popular Dvorak's Eighth Symphony and featuring violinist Charlie Siem, a recent graduate of Girtton College in the middle, the concert is guaranteed to more than make up for their decade away from the city.

The fifth instalment comes from the European Union Chamber Orchestra, which is made up of young professionals from throughout the EU who will be performing works by the classical greats, Mozart and Haydn.

In May we will be treated to another dose of Russian talent with the Moscow State Symphony Orchestra.

The Russian visitors will bring the series to a dramatic close with Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony.

Forcing bulbs for the festive season

It's difficult to think about Christmas as early as August, but if you want to force hyacinths to bring their sweet-scented fragrance and colour to the festive table, you need to do it now.

Garden centres will now be selling prepared hyacinths which have undergone heat treatment to bring them on early.

Buy the biggest bulbs you can find and plant them in containers, putting broken tiles or corks in the bottom and adding a thick layer of moss in the bottom of the pot to stop stagnant water from accumulating. You can also plant them in specially-prepared bulb fibre with good drainage to improve your chances of success. Place the bulbs close to one another but not touching, with their crowns just visible above the surface. Take care with watering if you use bowls without drainage holes, which you may want to stand on furniture at Christmas without staining the surface.

With all indoor bulbs, they need to fill the container with roots before the leaves start to grow, which will take between 10 and 14 weeks and is best achieved in moist, dark, cool conditions. Keep the bowls of bulbs in a spot where the temperature does not rise above 7-9C, such as a garage or frost-free shed.

If the temperature goes too high during this period, the leaves will emerge too long and lanky. If the root system isn't able to develop, you may not get flowers.

by Hannah Stephenson

After planting and watering, wrap the bowls in sheets of newspaper and put them in the coolest shed or room, or place them outdoors against a north wall, covering them with 15cm of composted bark, sand or soil, in a procedure known as plunging.

When the flower shoots start to emerge and are around 3cm long, bring them into the light but still keep them cool and check the compost, which should be moist but never waterlogged.

When the flowers start to colour and open, bring them into a warmer atmosphere in the house, at around 18C. If you have planted up a few containers, stagger bringing them in to prolong the flowering period. The ones in the cooler environment will remain quite happily at an earlier stage until they are exposed to more warmth.

Forcing bulbs doesn't come without its problems.

Central heating can be an obstacle as it shortens the life of the flowers. It helps if you can place the containers outside from time to time to give them a breath of cold air, and it may prolong flowering. You are also likely to have to stake them with pea sticks and string.

Good containers for hyacinths include wicker baskets which you can line with plastic, or big china wash bowls. Another good idea is to plant each bulb in its own individual pot, around 1cm wider and 2.5cm deeper than the bulb. That way, when the flowers start to open you can select all those at exactly the same stage to be put – pot and all – into your chosen larger decorative container, which you can then top with moss for an authentic-looking display.

Good varieties for forcing include Hyacinthus orientalis 'Jan Bos', which is a deep-pink type whose flower spikes are not so huge that they may stay upright without much staking, and the soft pink 'Anna Marie'.

BEST OF THE BUNCH

– Sedum

This reliable perennial, also known as the ice plant because they feel cold when you touch the succulent foliage on a warm day, is perfect at the front of the late-summer border.

Its flowers, in a variety of shades from white to shocking pink, attract butterflies and bees and begin to colour in late summer. Some types have seedheads which look good in winter, too.

Most sedums like well-drained soil in a sunny spot, and may suffer from stem rot if the soil is continually wet in summer. Sedums create autumn interest when combined with asters and ornamental grasses.

They grow to about 60cm and do well if lifted and divided every few years.

Good varieties include S 'Autumn Joy', which produces flat heads of salmon-pink to coppery red from August to November, or S 'spectabile' 'Brilliant', which bears dark, rich pink flowers and grows to just 25cm.

If you want a break from the traditional grey-green foliage, try S telephium subspecies maximum 'Atropurpureum', which has purple leaves and sprays of pink flowers.

GOOD ENOUGH TO EAT

– Prune summer-fruiting raspberries

Raspberries are extremely easy to prune and if done correctly will lead to better cropping in future years. They grow on a two-year cycle – the canes grow one summer, then fruit the next. The secret is to prune all the canes which have fruited, leaving the new ones which haven't for the following season.

Once you have picked and eaten all the raspberries you can, cut all the old fruited canes down to 2.5cm (1in) above ground level. You can identify the old canes as their tops have a cluster of short sideshoots still showing the brown leaves where you picked the fruit. Tie in the new canes which haven't fruited but have grown this summer to horizontal wires spaced around 15cm (6in) apart. If a lot of new canes have emerged, thin them out leaving the strongest ones 15cm (6in) apart.

Sell your property the CXG way...

Why sell the traditional way?

Get Estate Agents to value it and put it on the market.

Show people around the property
(mostly "nosy parkers" & sightseers).

If no offers received after 2 or 3 months, reduce price.

Show more people around.

Eventually accept an offer at between 5 & 10% off the advertised price.

Hope the sale doesn't fall through (over 30% of sales don't reach completion).

Once price agreed, wait a further 3 months for sale to complete.

Work out how many £000s it has cost you in reducing the price, making mortgage payments, paying Estate Agents fees and legal fees since you started the process (on average, 7 months ago...)

The simple alternative

- Pay no Estate Agent's fees
- Pay no Legal fees
- No further mortgage payments
- Have cash within days (Instead of months)

Depreciation chart

ALFA Romeo's 166 holds the dubious honour of being the worst depreciating car in the UK, retaining a mere 14.4 per cent of its original price after three years.

Rover and MG cars, such as the 45/ZS and 75/ZT, fare little better, just managing to hold on to 20 per cent of their values over the same period. Models from a number of other manufacturers feature in the 'bottom 10' – including Proton, Mitsubishi and Nissan – and none of these achieves a residual value better than 25 per cent.

The findings come from detailed analysis by

The Alfa Romeo 166: Worth 85.6 per cent of its original price after three years.

Top 10 depreciators are all now obsolete

Glass's Guide of the values of all three-year-old cars available in the UK – more than 6,500 model ranges in total.

The 10 worst-performing cars all share one feature which has a negative impact on their low retained values: obsolescence. Adrian Rushmore, managing editor of Glass's Guide, comments: "None of the bottom 10 models is currently in production. In fact, for almost all of them the last year they were available to buy as new cars was 2006. The used-car market has been offering these models for many years and they have been overtaken by a younger generation of cars with more stylish, modern designs. In the case of Rover/MG-badged cars, it's not just the models that are obsolete – even the manufacturer has gone."

Rushmore highlights another notable characteristic of certain entrants. "Many consumers would struggle to identify models like the Proton Impian and Mitsubishi Space Star. These cars sold in very limited numbers when new and, having failed to attract buyers then, will suffer from similarly low levels of demand as used vehicles."

But it's not all bad news for the cars at the bottom of the depreciation pile, as Rushmore explains. "What might at first seem like a curse could be a blessing – these vehicles represent fantastic value for money to would-be buyers. For example, a three-year-old Rover 45 could be purchased from a dealer for around £4,000 – some £2,500 less than an equivalent Ford Focus and £3,750 less than a comparable Volkswagen Golf."

One product segment is particularly well represented at the far end of the residual-value table: non-prestige upper mediums. "The Rover/MG 75/ZT is the worst performer in this depressed sector," notes Rushmore, "but other ranges are lurking just outside the bottom 10, including the Nissan Primera, Fiat Croma and the Vauxhall pairing of Vectra and Signum."

The 10 models which retain the least of their original list price (as a percentage) after three years and 39,000 miles are as follows:

1. Alfa Romeo 166, 14.4%
2. Rover 45/MG ZS, 20.3%
3. Rover CityRover, 20.4%
4. Rover 75/MG ZT, 21.3%
5. Proton Impian, 22.0%
6. Mitsubishi Space Star, 22.5%
7. Nissan Terrano, 22.9%
8. Alfa Romeo 156, 24.2%
9. Renault Laguna, 24.3%
10. Cadillac CTS, 24.8%

Mini's stunning Coupe Concept

THE first classic Mini was presented to the public on August 26, 1959.

Exactly 50 years on and nearly a decade into the life of new Mini, check these images of the stunning new Mini Coupe Concept, due to be unveiled at the Frankfurt Motor Show on September 17.

The Mini Coupe Concept is designed to be the most dynamic and agile Mini ever built. Strictly a two-seater, the low roof line, compact dimensions, perfect axle load distribution and lightweight construction are all trademarks of a genuine sports car.

Inside, sports seats with strongly contoured side supports feature, as does a three-spoke leather sports steering wheel with multi-function controls.

Sporty: The Mini Coupe Concept features Mini's most powerful engine.

A luggage capacity of 250 litres is offered and can be accessed at the rear by a tailgate which is hinged above the roof spoiler, making access easy. A lockable opening gives passengers access to the rear section at any time.

The Mini Coupe Concept

features the highly-acclaimed 211hp, 1.6-litre twin scroll turbocharged power unit found in current John Cooper Works models offers CO2 emissions of just 165g/km and fuel efficiency of 40.9mpg (combined).

Mini's revered handling dynamics will be a highlight of the Mini Coupe Concept. Front wheel drive, powerful disc brakes on all four wheels, the front axle with McPherson spring struts and a centrally guided rear axle with aluminium longitudinal arms and anti-roll bars guarantee a safe, yet grin-inducing drive every time. Mini-malms technologies including Brake Energy Regeneration, Shift Point Display and Auto Start/Stop.

Looking good: Beautiful lines stir the design pot.

The Kuga's neat AWD set-up boosts fuel use band traction

BRITAIN'S best-selling compact 4x4 boasts clever all-wheel drive technology combining outstanding handling and traction with excellent fuel economy.

The Ford Kuga crossover, which topped last month's small 4x4 segment, comes with a highly effective intelligent all-wheel drive (AWD) system – resulting in excellent dynamic and environmental credentials.

In normal road driving, the Kuga saves fuel by sending power through the front wheels only. When conditions demand more grip – such as on icy roads, off road or when towing – the AWD system automatically spreads torque between all four wheels.

Jürgen Pützschler, Ford vehicle dynamics supervisor, said: "The Kuga's intelligent AWD system splits the drive only when it's required, sharing the torque between front and rear wheels on demand. The result is extremely competitive fuel consumption, coupled with remarkable traction when required."

Ford Kuga's AWD works automatically, with no input required from the driver.

Sensors monitor key vehicle data – such as speed, acceleration, braking or cornering – and a control unit distributes the torque for optimum handling and grip.

The 2.0-litre TDCi model achieves an impressive 44.1mpg on the combined cycle, with CO2 emissions of just 169g/km.

The ix35: Refined.

HYundai puts ix35 in pipeline

HYUNDAI has released the first undisguised images of its new ix35, an all-new C-segment crossover that showcases Hyundai's distinctive new 'fluidic sculpture' design language.

The ix35 replaces the popular Tucson – one of Europe's best-selling SUVs – and will make its world debut at the Frankfurt Motor Show next month.

Design cues seen on ix35 will be carried over to other new Hyundai models, most notably the pronounced hexagonal grille which will become a recognisable family attribute.

The ix35 also has a smaller footprint than C-segment hatchbacks and MPVs, meaning it will also appeal to buyers who are seeking a more stylish alternative to conventional cars.

The sleeker styling contributes to enhanced aerodynamics. This, combined with more refined powertrain technology, enables ix35 to deliver markedly better fuel efficiency and lower CO2 emissions than rival SUVs.

End of the road for your vehicle?
Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF)
Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before its recycled in an environmentally friendly way.
What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility.

CRICKET ROUND-UP

Webb is the double star

HAVERHILL handed out an eight-wicket Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship, Division Two thrashing to Hadleigh at the Manor Road ground on Saturday.

Scott Webb, right, struck 84 and Luke Youngs added 38 not out as the hosts came through with 148 for 2 after Simon Youngs had taken four wickets and Chris Silverwood three to bowl out Hadleigh for 145.

After his big batting effort, Webb did the business with the ball in Haverhill's victory by 87 runs in the league match at Mildenhall II on Monday.

Dave Godwin struck 54 as the visitors were dismissed for 186, Matthew Barber taking 3 for 59. But Webb took a staggering 7 for 16 as Mildenhall were bowled out for 99.

In Division Two of the Tucker Gardner Cambs & Hunts Premier League, a crucial partnership between skipper Jimmy Handley and Ed Craigen helped Cambridge NCI to a six-wicket win at home to Weston Colville.

Handley hit an unbeaten 92 and Craigen 76 in a third-wicket stand as NCI made a winning 208 for 4.

It came in reply to Colville's innings of 207 for 6, in which Adam Curtis (72) led the way.

Balsham finished the CCA Senior League, Division One season on a high note by triumphing over an under-strength home side at Horseheath.

The hosts were without a host of first-team regulars, and skipper Gary Ellis believes it was the first time for more than 40 years that a member of the Ketteridge family was not in the side.

Horseheath were bundled out for 61 as Jack Squire (4 for 36), Evan Gard (2 for 4) and Lee Borcoski (2 for 9) did the damage. Martin Giles top-scored on 26.

Alex Talbot collected 2 for 26, but Gard's unbeaten 33 made sure Balsham cruised to 62 for 3.

Teenager Liam Savage compiled his first ton and guided Thurlow to a four-wicket victory at Cokenach in Division 1B of the Cricket Stick CCA Junior League.

He struck 120 from 95 balls and shared a 95-run stand with Martyn Farrent (35) as the visitors reached 190 for 6.

Matt Stevens (64) and Philip Seale (58) had earlier helped Cokenach make 187 for 3.

FOOTBALL: LATEST NEWS FROM HAMLET CROFT

Plucky show from Rovers

HAVERHILL Rovers put up a battling display before losing 4-2 to Ridgeons League, Premier Division leaders CRC at Hamlet Croft on Tuesday evening.

Playing against a young side, which included many Cambridge United scholars, Peter Betts' team took the lead when Shaun Banham slotted in after a quickly-taken free kick by skipper Marcus Hunt.

The visitors levelled on 24 minutes after Hunt's attempted clearance bounced back off a team-mate and fell for Darryl Coakley to fire home.

A poor punch by home keeper Dave Walton allowed Jack Eades to slot home to put CRC ahead around the half-hour mark.

Hunt blasted in a cracking shot off the underside of the crossbar from Paul Abbott's right-wing cross to equalise for Haverhill after 57 minutes.

But Liam Hughes edged the visitors back in front on 73 minutes with a deflected free kick, before driving in off the post two minutes from time after dispossessing Abbott.

Haverhill also suffered blow when left-back Danny Shipton was carried off on a stretcher with 10 minutes remaining.

■ Rovers take a break from league action on Saturday when Ridgeons League, First Division Swaffham Town are scheduled to visit Hamlet Croft for an FA Vase first qualifying round tie, kick-off 3pm.
